

Columbus Clinic Accreditations:

The Columbus Clinic applied and received select accreditations from the American College of Radiology. The ACR is a national organization that has been designated as an accrediting body by the Food and Drug Administration. Although healthcare facilities are not currently required to obtain ACR accreditation, Columbus Clinic chose to become accredited due to the numerous benefits it would provide for our patients, staff, and partnering physicians. Our three fields of accreditation are:

- ❖ MRI
- ❖ Nuclear Medicine
- ❖ Mammography
